

FORE School of Management, New Delhi hosts an inspiring induction ceremony for its PGDM & PGDM-IB batch of 2017-19

The Induction Ceremony for FMG 26 and IMG 11 Batches of FORE School of Management, New Delhi was recently held on campus on the 20th of June. The ceremony brought together many leading names from industry and academia. The new batch of students could not have been more inspired by the presence of Mr. Ashwinder Raj Singh, FORE alum and CEO, JLL Residential, who was the Chief Guest for the day.

The proceedings began with the traditional lighting of the lamp. Prof. Sanghamitra Buddhapriya, Chairperson – PGP then delivered her address welcoming the new batch of future managers. Dr. Jitendra. K. Das, Director of the institute, delivered the Welcome Address. In his thoughtful speech, he said, “Focus on grooming your overall personality rather than just getting good grades. Recruiters often prefer street smart students rather than academically-oriented ones.”

He also advised the students to make the most of the next two years as for many it would be the last time they would step into an educational institution. The time had then come for the new batch of students to step up and take the Induction Oath. It was a moment of pride for many as they had made it through the B School of their choice, and were now ready to follow the legacy of many illustrious alumni.

As the gathering settled down, Dr. R. C. Sharma, President of the institute, took to the dais for the Presidential Address. He congratulated the students on becoming a part of the family at FORE School of Management and urged them to take the legacy of the institute forward. The next speaker, who graduated from the institute two decades ago, has done just that. Hence, it wasn't surprising that the Chief Guest was greeted with a big round of applause as he took to the stage.

Mr. Ashwinder Raj Singh has had a prolific career since his time at FORE School of Management. He shared his experiences in his Inaugural Address that also motivated the new students. He shared the Principles of Agile Success, saying, “You always have to put the customer first, network, have clear focus, build relationships based on trust, think out of the box, never shy away from hard work and have the capability to channel emotional energy.”

After his rousing speech, Dr. B. B. L Madhukar, Vice President (Finance), and Treasurer of the B School, presented a Vote of Thanks. In a speech laced with couplets he drove his point home with the students in style. Finally, two second year students from the institute thanked all the dignitaries for taking time out and sharing their experience with the new batch. It was indeed an inspiring and eye-opening start to their journey at FORE School of Management.
